1. The present director of the Gdynia-Ameryka Line (name unknown) is a former textile worker.* At the time of his appointment the new director was described as "a capable man and a member of the Communist Party". His enthusiasm for Communism since that time is said to have diminished sharply. Dr. Dorsky,* the former director of the GAL, was dismissed because he was not a member of the Communist Party. He is now teaching in a merchant marine school in Gdynia.
2. Mieszyslaw Aleksander Gasiorowski, born in Warsaw on 26 September 1904, is a Polish engineer stationed in Copenhagen as the director of construction on Polish ships at the Burmeister and Wain shipyards. Gasiorowski is a member of the Communist Party in Poland but is reported not to be in agreement with the party's present policies.
3. The Aarhus floating dock in Aarhus, Denmark, is completing work on a ship to be delivered to Poland in mid-November. The Polish engineer in charge of the work is Piscozub, who will sail as second engineer on the ship when it is completed. The Aarhus floating dock is negotiating with Poland for a contract to build six or seven landing stages (sic) for salvage work and to repair a ship now being refloated in Poland.
